Summary of Changes to Claims

- Claim 1: Since the word "identifier" alone is getting confused with the definition used in the Berry patent, I have clearly defined this identifier as NOT the one Berry refers to (the industry-standard Redbook audio CD identifier).
- Claims 2 and 4: The changes to claim 1 should make claims 2 and 4 clear without additional changes.
- Claims 5, 6, and 7: The only Berry references to "messages" are to network messaging packets. Moreover, the Berry patent doesn't teach anything about commercial advertisements. I have added the word "advertising" to claims 5 and 6 to make it clear that all "messages" referenced are advertising messages. I've canceled claim 7 because it is now redundant.
- Claims 9 and 10: The real purpose of the invention is to handle audio files. For simplicity I'm canceling the claims for video and text files.
- Claims 11, 13, 14, 15: I've amended or canceled these for the reasons given above for claims 5, 6, and 7.
- Claims 17 and 18: Canceled for the same reasons as given above for claims 9 and 10.

I ask that all claims be allowed in view of the amendments to the claims contained on the following sheets, a total of 5 pages.

Respectfully submitted,

Date: June 19, 2004
